Buron Wood presides in the Nisi princount, where there are 211 causes entered for trial, of which four have Special Juries.—There remained 97 untried at the rising of the Court, last night.— We intend to give some particulars of the most interesting causes and trials in our next and succeeding papers.

Friday afternoon, the 12th inst. the Grand Jury for the county of York appeared in Court, when Sir F. L. Woodt, Bart. Foreman, read a paper, containing observations on the state of the gool. The paper commenced with stating that the Grand Jury concurred in the report, relative to the management of the gool. The paper commenced with stating that the Grand Jury concurred in the report, relative to the management of the gool. The paper commenced with the Grand Jury concurred in the report, relative to the management of the gool. The paper commenced with the Grand Jury concurred in the report, relative to the management of the gool. The paper commenced with the form of the female prisoners, they had only one common day-room. The paper count of the great number of pisoners, they had only one common day-room. There were also no means of conduing boys or others, charged with a first offence, apart from the most hardened offenders, except by placing them with persons charged with misdiemanors; and they reported generally, that the gool did not afford room for a proper classification; they therefore recommended an enlargement to be made, under the superintendence of Magistrates, who, from their local situation, might be able to pay the most artention, and that without any expense beyond what was necessary for the object in view. On these grounds, they presented the County Gaoi as insufficient.

The inakeeper whose bill produced so much laughter, at the last Yorkshire Assizes, had a verdict in his favour;—Ilis name was Shaw; that of the defendant, Duke Horsley.

At Exceler Assizes, Si

At Exeter Assizes, Sir Manasseh Lopez, At Exeter Assizes, Sir Manasseh Lopez, Bart, who was lately declared, by a Committee of the House of Commons, not to be duly elected, was found guilty of bribery and corruption, at the late Grampound election.—An open person, of the name of Allen, was also found guilty of having received a bribe of £35. at the same election.—Another person, named Symons, pleaded guilty of bribery, at the same election are the hands of Mr. Staveley, the sum of £5 5s. and the Gentlemen of the Grand Jury the sum of £20 1s. to be applied for discharging by Supersedens, &c. poor insolvent debtors, who may be considered deserving of the said charity.

A bobbin-mill at Gill-head, near Bowness, occupied by Mr. James Phillipson, was, on the night of Saturday se'nnight, completely destroyed by fire: the origin of the accident has not been discovered.

Women Parsons.—A new sect of Methodists, distinguished by the appellation of Briantists, have lately taken rise, and are making considerable progress among the inhabitants of Cornwall. Their high-priest, but on account of some disagreement taking place, he dissented from them, and instituted a sect of his own.
